Reviews/NYC

I love this guy! Thursday night in NYC I saw charismatic blue-eyed soul and Motown singer Mark Arthur Miller's show Soul Searching. I highly recommend the show and album of the same name. - James Gavin, Biographer of George Michael, Chet Baker, Lena Horne and Peggy Lee

He sang the songs with so much passion and feeling it was like you were hearing the songs in a confessional. Absolutely breathtaking. – Donna Herman, The Front Row Center \(Triad\)

We went wild! The music was so compelling that I and the woman sitting next to me agreed that we should join the stage as additional backups! – Steve Nardoni, Theater Pizzazz

From the moment the star appears from the back of the house—jive dancing in a shiny grey suit that all but screams Motown—all arrows point to the Motor City. This is a show filled top to bottom with soul, from the son's exploration of self to the meaning of the Motown soul ethic to the seriously soulful set list of Motown standards and hits. – Marilyn Lester, Nitelite Exchange

Mark Arthur Miller hit the stage at The Green Room 42 with sensational exuberance and sizzling delight. He is in his element as a dancer, singer, and showman. The show, appropriately named, "Soul Searching" dips deep into your heart and soul with some of the best music ever created. Nature or nurture. Mark Arthur Miller seems to have gotten both in spades. This music is timeless.
–Holli Harms, The Front Row Center (Gr Room 42)

Reviews/Los Angeles

Mark Arthur Miller possesses a sexy, rugged masculinity, stylish dance moves, and an exquisite, textured and distinctive singing voice. If the theme of this show was "Soul Searching," I think Miller has found the "soul" he was searching for, on so many levels. – Clifford Bell, Cabaret Scenes Link to full review: <http://tinyurl.com/Cabaret-Scenes-Clifford-Bell>

Though centered around a loving, spirited tribute to the personal and musical legacy of his dad, legendary Motown songwriter Ron Miller, Mark Arthur Miller's vibrant show is just as much a magical, grooving homage to an era of classic pop and soul that continues to capture our hearts and linger in the imagination. Miller's charisma coupled with fresh, exciting arrangements and lively pacing make this show one for the ages. A truly brilliant showcase from an artist we need to see and hear more of. – Author and Music Journalist, Jonathan Widran

Miller's velvety smooth voice called forth the images in sight and sound of greats like Eddie Kendrix of The Temptations, Otis Redding, Smokey Robinson as well as the female stars like Aretha Franklin, Gladys Knight and Diana Ross. – Don Grigware, Broadway World

Mark Arthur Miller's Soul Searching could easily be a movie or a Broadway experience. He spins soul seamlessly. – B. Trout, Music Connection

Album review:

This is a mighty dose of blue-eyed soul you won't forget. – Midwest Record Review of Soul Searching LP
